Hi Nick,

Thank you for your previous detailed email, about which I did liaise with the Editor, Paula Flynn. Hope this approval and permission granted (within the email below) from the editor of the piece in question (also attached as a pdf with this email) suffices as per requirements for it to be now uploaded to NECTAR. I'd be grateful if you could please confirm with me when this happens. Many thanks.

Kind regards,

Saneeya

Hello Saneeya,

It's lovely to hear from you and I hope your research is going well? Congratulations on the 2nd Annual Symposium, I've heard wonderful feedback, but that was exactly what I expected! Well done to all involved.

I'm glad that you are happy with the first volume of the Journal and naturally you would want to include this in the Northampton repository. I have attached the PDF version to this message and I'm happy to confirm on behalf of the School of Education, Trinity College Dublin, as well as the TCD contributors that you are welcome to upload this on your webpage as a celebration of the first symposium and in recognition of all the participants and contributors.

Warm regards,

Paula

Hi Paula,

I hope you are well. Many congratulations to you on the production of a most impressive first volume of the Inter University Symposium Journal (IUSJ)! It has been inspiring to see our work in print, and moreso motivating for the next one, following the 2nd Annual Symposium here in Northampton last week.

Paula, I am emailing with regard to the booklet being up on the TCD website at <http://www.tcd.ie/Education/research/trinity-papers/IUSJ%20-Vol%201%20.pdf>

It says that copyright lies with the School of Education, Trinity College Dublin. Since there are Northampton contributors to the journal as well, we would also like to include this publication in our online University repository as well. I am therefore writing to request you to please send me an email in which you can confirm that everyone from TCD who contributed to the IUSJ are happy for it to be included on the Northampton repository.

Would be ever so grateful for your prompt consideration in this matter as we are hoping to upload it at the earliest. Many thanks.

Kindest regards,

Hello Everyone,

I hope you have been keeping well and managed to get some time to relax over the summer months.

In response to some requests, I am extending the deadline for draft submissions for the Symposium Booklet by a week to the 6th September 2013, which provides another three weeks from today. I have attached some guidelines around structural conventions and referencing to ensure consistency. The guidelines for referencing (APA 6th) are fairly standard and I have taken them from the School of Education (Trinity College Dublin) guidelines to research students for theses and publications in the 'Trinity Education Papers' journal. They are also similar to conventions for submissions to some other journals.

I have copied all of the symposium participants into this email for information purposes, however, direct submissions of drafts are required only from the keynote presenters and the rapporteurs from the roundtable discussions.

All the best in the meantime and I look forward to hearing from you by 6th September.

Kindest regards,

Paula
